DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments/amendments overcame all previous rejections.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 14 is allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-13 and 54-62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kim et al (2005/0228500). This reference is a CIP of 10/632,538 filed 8/1/03 which supports the figures 1-11.

Referring to figure 7, Kim et al teaches:

1. (Currently Amended) An anchoring device for disposition within an intervertebral space comprising:

first and second end members 71A, 71B, the first and second end members cooperating to slidably receive a prosthetic insertion device, wherein the first and second end members each comprise a first surface, at least one vertebral-engaging member (55, see figure 5A) extending from the first surface, a second surface in an opposed relation to the first surface, a first sidewall, a second sidewall, and a back wall extending from the second surface to define a socket 58 adapted to receive a portion of the prosthetic insertion device; and at least one retention member (elements 56 and 53; see figure 5A) having a first end and an engagement portion, the first end attached to a portion of the end member, the engagement portion moveable between a first position outside of the socket for allowing the portion of the prosthetic insertion device to slide within the socket and a second position at least partially within the socket to inhibit sliding of the portion of the prosthetic insertion device within the socket.

Regarding the access hole, note that the flange on the first surface is cut out such that the retention member is accessible.

Art Unit: 3738

Regarding at least claim 4, elements 55 have a longitudinal axis which is about 90 degrees relative to the top surface; 90 degrees is an angle. The sides of the conical points are definitely relatively angled.

Regarding claim 5, Compact Oxford English Dictionary defines edge as:

edge • noun 1 the outside limit of an object, area, or surface

Element 55 has a sharp outside limit.

Regarding claim 6, see paragraph 0160.

Regarding the retaining members, they are pivotally attached in a living hinge configuration.
